

Introducing

Project Vedanta

By High Ping Studios

Project Vedanta is a narrative parkour experience set in Indian eschatological myth. You play as a little boy trapped in a labyrinth like structure, trying to find your way out of it while uncovering the history of the world.

Art Direction

We want Project Vedanta to be an epic narrative and visual adventure. We want it to be spoken of as a cult classic, in the realm of games like Shadow of the Colossus and Journey.

Our music is a fusion between Western orchestral instrumentation and Indian instruments that provides a very atmospheric and mysterious soundscape.

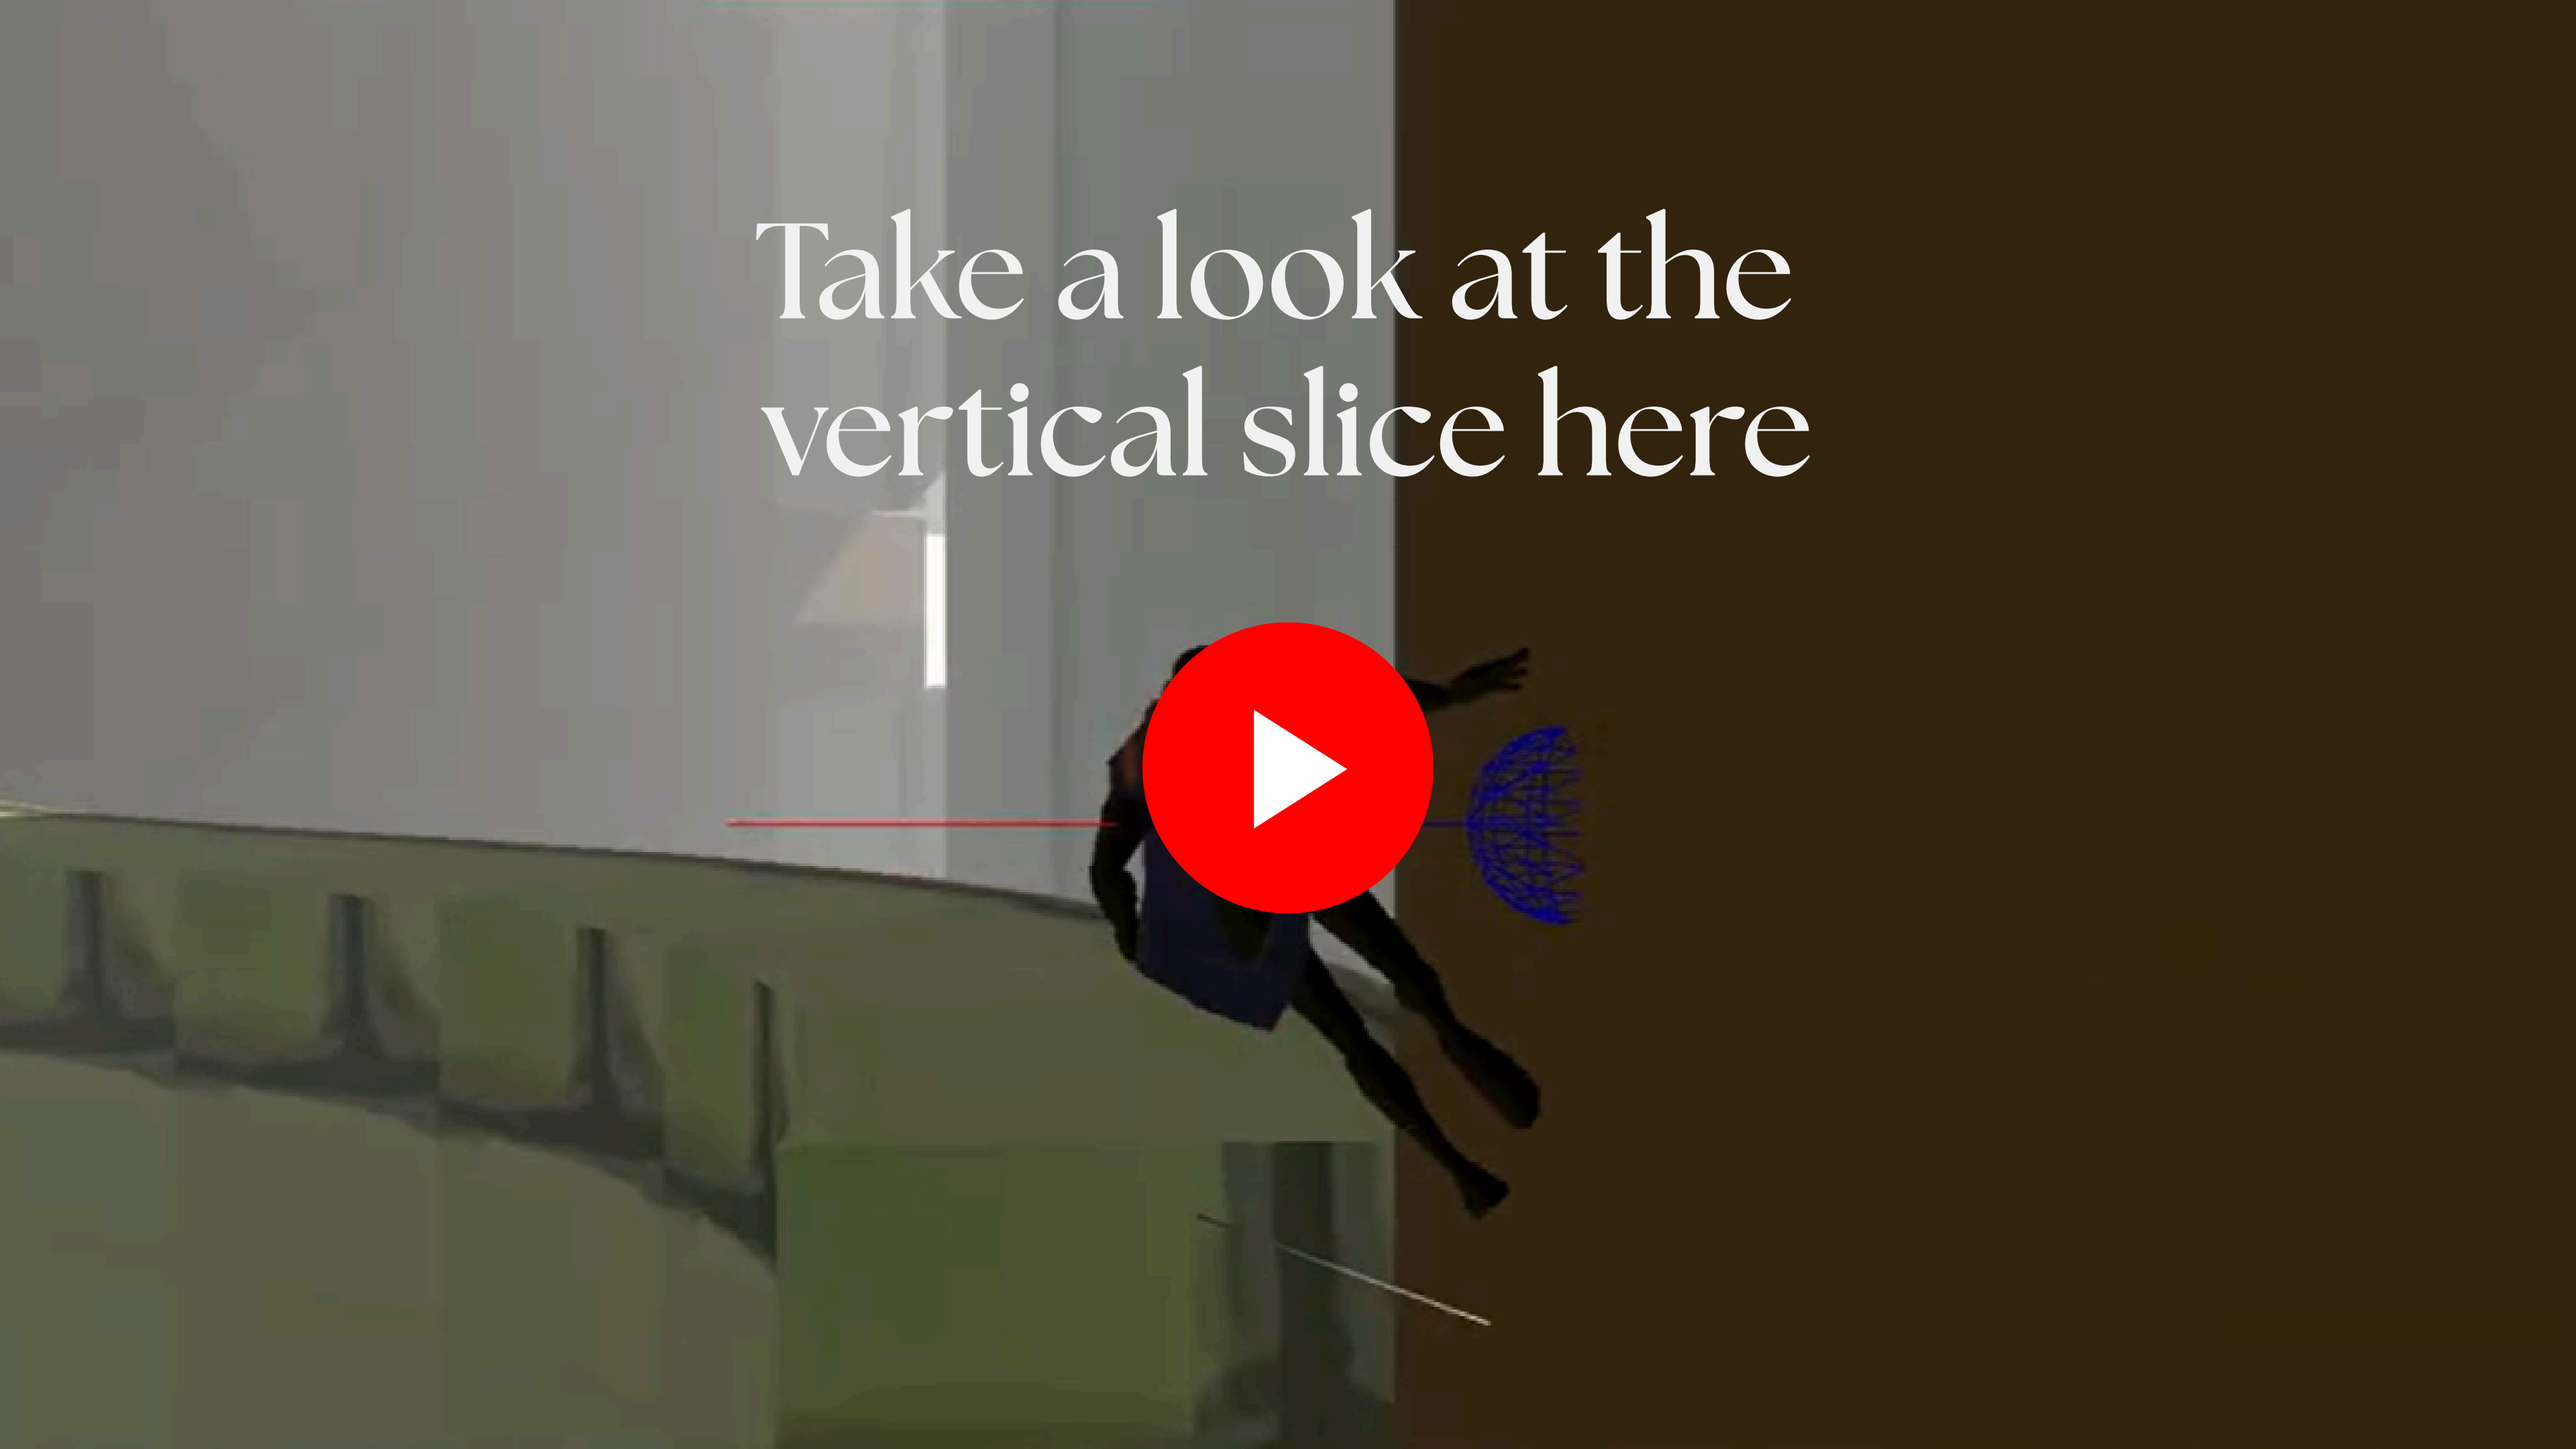

Movement and the Vertical Slice

Fluid parkour movement including run, jump, vault, slide and wallrun. The movement trigger is contextual for wallrun and vault to provide a smooth cinematic look to the gameplay.

The Slow to Medium speed movement provides a richer experience as to allow the player to take in the ambience and catch the hidden mysterious of the world via environment story telling.

Limited to no player UI

Take a look at the vertical slice here

Funding and Partnership Request

We are seeking an initial investment of $50,000 USD to support the development of our game, with a targeted release in mid-2027.

As a small, dedicated team, we operate with a lean development structure, ensuring that resources are allocated efficiently and unnecessary overhead is minimized.

The funding will sustain our core team throughout production while enabling us to engage specialized external talent for key aspects of development, including animation, voice acting, and narrative consulting.

Our goal is to maximize the impact of every dollar invested, delivering a polished and compelling gaming experience while maintaining a focused, cost-effective production pipeline.